Company description

Master baker Emil Stiebling founded his small bakery in the Thuringian village Langenhain in 1922 and puzzled out the recipes which are today the basics for Cakees. He had a lot of competition from Otto Reimann, who ran another bakery and grain mill in the village. Their children married later, and today both bakeries are under one roof. Our plant in India is therefore named after Otto Reimann. During the years the recipes were continuously fine-tuned, so that today the Cakee-bakers can build on grown recipes. You can trace that in the taste. Although baked with modern machinery, they are still the same oven-fresh cakes as 90 years ago. We manufacture Cakees in Germany at Bäckerei Stiebling GmbH and in India at Reimanns Fine Foods Pvt. Ltd., both companies owned by the Stiebling family.
